

Proud to be an honorary Nittany Lion

November 10, 2011

Even though I am a proud George Mason University Patriot, I have always admired what Penn State stands for as a university.

My uncle graduated from Penn State in the 50s and has never missed a homecoming, I grew up giving money to the many alumni who would donate their time to canning for many of philanthropies PSU supported, and now my sister and cousins count themselves in the PSU alumni family.

Penn State to me, has always been synonymous with “community” and “generosity”. When PSU supports a cause, like the amazing THON, they give well over 200%, and when you have the distinction of not being a Penn Stater, they don’t care, they embrace you whole heartedly and treat you as a fellow Nittany Lion.

I have had the privilege to spend weekends at Beaver Stadium, hangout at The First and see first hand, the good and the love that Penn State gives to their fellow students, their beloved school and the world at large.

YOU ARE Amazing PSU! Hold your heads up and continue to go forth and be excellent. Do not allow anyone to tell you otherwise!

With love and regards,
An “honorary Nittany Lion” from GMU

« Penn State Alma Mater — Graduation 2009 »