

Penn State Proud

November 11, 2011

Like everyone else, I am deeply saddened by the events that took place, especially by someone that many looked up to as an role model and the fact that it took place in our backyard. We certainly have been through a trying week, and the weeks ahead sure wont get any easier.

However, lets go out and show America and the World what Penn State is truly about. Lets show them the high academic standards we are held to. Lets show them the great things that Penn State scholars do in the community. Lets show them what it means to truly be a Nittany Lion. Lets show them that WE ARE bigger than a football coach, a football team, athletics, and that the actions of a few men do not equal the rest of the institution.

Lets put our faith in the law, in hopes that it will do whats right. That justice will be served to all those that did wrong but lets also remember “innocent until proven guilty”. Lets not cast the first stone while also showing the world that we care about the victims first.

Moreover, lets not place blame anywhere for the terrible events that unfoled and slanderized this great institution. Lets not point fingers at Anthony McQueary. Lets not lose sight of what Joe has taught us. Lets show the world the classiness that Joe expects from his football team and each and everyone of us. Lets learn from the things that have happened, and step up and fight to prevent it from happening again, not only at Penn State but other institutions as well. Lets step up and Fight for the victims of these heinous crimes and be a voice against child abuse.

We Care... Penn State

We Are... Penn State

Roar Lions Roar

« For The Kids — 100 Days til THON – HUGS »