

McKenzie: Sabres' Pegula Speaks Out On Penn State

November 17, 2011

“As a father of five children, three of them still teenagers, and a proud alumnus of Penn State University, Terry Pegula has nothing but concern and compassion for the victims, whomever they are and however many of them there are, in the ongoing PSU scandal.

But the billionaire owner of the Buffalo Sabres — whose $88 million “gift” to PSU in September of 2010 to build a hockey arena and start an NCAA Division 1 hockey program is reportedly the largest single donation ever to the school — also has some strong feelings on how the university needs to conduct its affairs now and how the vast majority of “Penn Staters” need not hang their heads.

...”

Click Here to Continue Reading

« Support Wall for the Families and Children of the Second Mile — Me and the Boys »