

Penn State Rock Ethics Institute Standup Awards

November 22, 2011

We received two submissions on the Rock Ethics Institute, so we merged them into one.

Check out Penn State's Rock Ethics Institute site. Rock Ethics has been and will continue to be about spreading ethical awareness and helping individuals to make ethical decisions. The institute has had a standup award program for outstanding and courageous Penn State students who make ethical decisions in tough circumstances and they are looking for this year's nominees. The past awardees and, I am sure, the future awardees are all people we can be proud of.

There is a strong ethics institute at Penn State dedicated to advancing ethical knowledge and decision making.
<http://rockethics.psu.edu/>

The institute is seeking student nominees for its standup awards given to students who display ethical behavior in difficult circumstances. Check out the site and consider nominating such students. The past awardees are another reason to be proud of Penn State students and faculty.

Full disclosure- I serve on the advisory Board of the Institute.

Dennis Jackman

« Moving Forward – A Message from President Rodney Erickson – THON LiveBIG Feature »