

Pride

July 28, 2012

I can not remember a fall Saturday not spent in state college or around a television. I knew campus like the back of my hand before I was in highschool, let alone college. I went to every sporting event I could. I knew all the words to the alma mater when I was in elementary school. In 5th grade I won the “I bleed blue and white award” and to this day I am proud of it. Nothing about that will change. We are still a university that stands for success with honor. There are far too many facts that prove it. Our athletes graduate, we have THON, professors and students come from around the world for the chance to be educated at penn state. One man took advantage of the trust and compassion of the penn state community. He will not bring us down, nothing is changed fundamentally. I still wear my blue and white with pride. When I have children they will know the alma mater long before they take their SAT.

May no act of ours bring shame.
