

Independent Penn State Community Survey

July 30, 2012

Affinity Connection, a State College based company that serves non-profit and alumni interest group organizations nationwide, is seeking a thoughtful assessment on the road ahead from people who care about rebuilding the Penn State and local communities. Affinity hopes to bring the voice of the Penn State community to the table in a formal way through a survey that goes deeper into people's insights and opinions about how we can evaluate our current situation and chart a course for the future. The survey seeks responses from:

- Penn State alumni, students, parents and faculty
- Local residents, business owners and employers
- Penn State fans and visitors to Happy Valley

Fill out as many or as few of the questions as are most important to you. An answer to all questions is not required for completion.
