We know that members of the Penn State community want to channel their energy around this tragedy into good.

Write a post, add a picture, add a video or use your own creativity to craft something to share. Not only will this be inspirational for us as we move forward, but we'll also call attention to the traditions that make Penn State the special institution it is, and help others to grasp what makes Penn State different.

In addition to being a home for these artifacts, this is also a platform where people can post different ideas for longer-term, sustained initiatives, and then leave people with a call to action for how we do something. We know that everyone has different ideas for how we as a community can respond to this crisis, so take advantage of this as a way to share ideas.

We are excited to see what the Penn State community has to offer.
